Information on Guadalajara's Cathedral:

The twin steeples of the cathedral serve as an excellent starting point to explore the city center plazas and monuments. The cathedral, dedicated to the Virgin of the Assumption when it was begun in 1561, was finished about 30 years later. A potpourri of styles - Moorish, Gothic, Renaissance and Classic - make up its spires, arches and facades. Although an earthquake demolished its steeples in 1818, they were rebuilt and resurfaced with cheery canary yellow tiles in 1854.

Information on Guadalajara:
The Hospicio Cabanas was built at the beginning of the 19th century to provide care and shelter for the disadvantaged and the weak. This remarkable complex was unique for its time. It is also notable for the harmonious relationship between the open and built spaces, the simplicity of its design and its size in the early 20th century. The chapel was decorated with a series of murals by Jose Clemente Orozco, which is now considered one of the masterpieces of Mexican art.
