Information on Guadalajara

"The Pearl of the West" is the affectionate name that the local residents have for Mexico's second largest city: Guadalajara, located in the west-central part of the country in the state of Jalisco. The beautiful colonial city of Guadalajara sits on a high plateau more than 5,000 feet above sea level. Even today, the downtown area of Guadalajara is filled with charming colonial buildings dating from the 1600's.

Combinaciones

All combinations served with Mexican rice and refried beans or cholesterol-free beans "frijoles de la olla". Choice of stuffing: cheese, ground beef, chicken, or picadillo. Add .95 for sour cream on top of any item and $1.50 for guacamole.

Information on Guadalajara's Cathedral:

The twin steeples of the cathedral serve as an excellent starting point to explore the city center's plazas and monuments. The cathedral, dedicated to the Virgin of the Assumption when it was begun in 1561, was finished about 30 years later. A potpourri of styles - Moorish, Gothic, Renaissance and Classic - make up its spires, arches and facades. Although an earthquake demolished its steeples in 1818, they were rebuilt and resurfaced with cheery canary yellow tiles in 1854.

Information on Guadalajara:

The Hospicio Cabanas was built at the beginning of the 19th century to provide care and shelter for the disadvantaged and the weak. This remarkable complex was unique for its time. It is also notable for the harmonious relationship between the open and built spaces, the simplicity of its design and its size in the early 20th century. The chapel was decorated with a series of murals by Jose Clemente Orozco, which is now considered one of the masterpieces of Mexican art.
